

Basic Detail Report

A policeman offers an elderly man a blanket as he walks through the streets in the aftermath of an earthquake in Tuscany that left about 5,000 homeless

Date

1971-1971

Medium

gelatin silver print

Description

The medieval section of Tuscania is practically levelled, and 60 percent of the city's buildings destroyed In Central Italy on the 6/7th February 1971, a magnitude 4.5 earthquake occurs, near Tuscania, Italy. 31 dead, over 100 injured, and about 5,000 homeless. The medieval section of Tuscania is practically levelled, and 60 percent of the city's buildings destroyed.

Dimensions

Overall: 30.5 x 21.2 cm (12 x 8 3/8 in.)