

Basic Detail Report

A policeman wearing riot gear carries out squatters' belongings after a forced eviction from the building in the background at the left of the picture

Date

1969-1979

Medium

gelatin silver print

Description

Squatting vacant or unfinished buildings would have been illegal in the 70s, and often police were sent in to demand a rent from the squatters, or force them out.

Dimensions

Overall: 30.3 x 21.2 cm (12 x 8 3/8 in.)