

Basic Detail Report

A police line watching a homeless man walking away with his belongings wrapped up in a folded mattress

Date

1969-1979

Medium

gelatin silver print

Description

A police line watching a homeless man walking away with his belongings wrapped up in a folded mattress. During the early 70s police forcibly evicted many 'Baraccati' from squats, partially built developments, and temporary shanty towns, as they were all deemed to be illegal, or missing payment to the government somehow.

Dimensions

Overall: 30.5 x 21.3 cm (12 x 8 3/8 in.)