

Basic Detail Report

An Afghan National Army soldier lays in his bed beside his assault rifle, bread, tea and a small Christmas tree during the morning on the second day of EID while taking a break from the fighting to celebrate the second EID also known as the Festival of Sacrifice at a Forward Operating Base on the front lines in Zhari District located west of Kandahar City, Afghanistan. Many of the Afghan soldiers serving with Canadian Troops considered EID like their form of Christmas. There are two celebrations of EID during the second it is common to sacrifice an animal, which is to commemorate and celebrate the sacrifice of the Prophet Abraham also known as Ibrahim

Date

December 20, 2007

Primary Maker

Louie Palu

Medium

pigment print

Dimensions

Overall: 50.8 × 61 cm (20 × 24 in.)

